

Weekly progress

Last week, I have finished the coding work of the extraction program using new algorithm. Then I selected one small circuit from Boeing, debugged it, then made it work.

Plan for next week

In the next week, I will try to find even bigger test circuits from Boeing, and make the program work for them. Because there is only two weeks left before the deadline of DAC, I will write a paper based on the result.