

Present the Solution

ASSIGNMENT

Choose a technical PowerPoint presentation that you have designed and delivered in the past, whether in a class or another venue. Revise the presentation to tell a story rather than only present information. Ensure that your story contains, at the least, the following components of storytelling recommended for PowerPoint (or similar) presentation formats:

Act 1: Setting the Stage

- Scene 1: The Setting
- Scene 2: The Protagonist
- Scene 3: The Imbalance
- Scene 4: Creating Balance
- Scene 5: The Solution

Act 2: Appeal to Reason

- Developing the Action

Act 3: Appeal to Emotion

- Scene 1: The Crisis
- Scene 2: The Solution
- Scene 3: The Climax
- Scene 4: The Resolution

Submit, in .ppt or .pptx format, the before and after products of your effort -- the presentation as it was originally delivered and the presentation as it looks after it is revised to tell a story. Your revised presentation should clearly label the different Acts and Scenes in hidden slides prior to the start of a particular part of the story. For example, a hidden slide would appear right before Act 3, Scene 1 and say something along the lines of "This next segment outlines Act 3, Scene 1, the Crisis - where the crisis to the problem presented here is"
